

CONSULTANTS IN TEXAS HOLDING NATIONAL CERTIFICATIONS RELATING TO INDOOR AIR QUALITY

DISCLAIMER

Individuals/firms included on this list of consultants are in no way endorsed by the Texas Department of Health (TDH). TDH does NOT certify or license persons or companies for mold or general indoor air quality investigations, sampling, remediation, or training. (State certification IS required for persons performing asbestos-related or lead-related activities in certain buildings.)

This list is provided by the TDH, Indoor Air Quality/Industrial Hygiene Branch as a service to the public and to aid those who wish to hire professional assistance in addressing general indoor air quality problems, including mold. The information presented in this list is provided by the specified trade organizations, or self-reported by firms and individuals. The accuracy of the information provided by these entities is not verified by TDH.

There are several national professional organizations that offer certifications relating to indoor air quality and environmental health issues. This list of consultants includes individuals certified by three such organizations: I) the American Board of Industrial Hygiene (www.abih.org); II) the Indoor Air Quality Association (www.iaqa.org); and III) the American Indoor Air Quality Council (www.iaqcouncil.org). To create this list, TDH obtained names of consultants from two of these trade groups, through an affiliated group, and directly from individuals holding certifications from these groups who requested to be listed. See box below for information on adding a consultant's name to this list.

NOTE: In addition to the groups above, there are other professionals such as engineers, mechanical contractors, chemists, registered sanitarians, and microbiologists, for example, who perform indoor air quality investigations. The public is advised to consult local yellow page listings under "Environmental and Ecological Consultants," or "Environmental and Ecological Equipment and Services," for other consultants in this field. Internet searches may also be helpful. One source of information on various building and construction contractors by geographic area can be found at www.thebluebook.com. The California Department of Health provides excellent guidance for the public on hiring an indoor air consultant at www.cal-iaq.org/iaqsheets.htm#Guidance.

I. American Board of Industrial Hygiene (ABIH). The ABIH, a not-for-profit corporation, is the certifying board through which individuals must test and be evaluated for the title of "Certified Industrial Hygienist" (CIH). The science of industrial hygiene is dedicated to anticipating, recognizing, evaluating and controlling the causes of occupational illness. Further information about ABIH, including a roster of all CIHs, is available on the ABIH website at www.abih.org. The ABIH roster is not included here because some persons listed are not practicing consultants, and would not wish to be contacted by the general public.

Lists IA and IB below are comprised of names of CIHs obtained by TDH from the American Industrial Hygiene Association (AIHA [www.aiha.org] - a trade association of CIHs and others interested in the practice of industrial hygiene), and from individuals who are self-identified as CIHs, and have requested to be included on the TDH list. Please note the AIHA does not certify CIHs.

List IA. This list is comprised of Texas Members of the AIHA who advertised their services through the AIHA website as of April 2001. Note: There are other members of the AIHA who do not advertise their services through AIHA. These members (as well as non-AIHA members) are on List IB as “self-reported” CIHs, if they have requested to be listed. Only those individuals specifically designated as a CIH on the AIHA website listing are included in List IA.

The following codes are used in the AIHA listing to indicate type of buildings inspected: Residential = R, Commercial = C, Both = B. In addition, consultants may perform a variety of services/activities indicated by the following numbers 1 through 21:

1) Asbestos; 2) Biological Monitoring; 3) Ergonomics; 4) Indoor Air Quality; 5) IH Chemistry; 6) Hearing Conservation/Noise Control; 7) Radiological Control; 8) Respiratory Protection/PPE; 9) Toxicology; 10) Ventilation; 11) Training/Instruction; 12) Safety Specialist; 13) Expert Witness; 14) Comprehensive IH Practice; 15) Environmental Practice; 16) Lead; 17) Computer Software/Information Services; 18) Vibration; 19) Management/Audits/Inspection; 20) Environmental & Occupational Medicine; 21) Emergency Management/Disaster Planning.

II. Indoor Air Quality Association (IAQA) – This professional association is comprised of many individuals from varied backgrounds and training who are working in the field of indoor air quality. The IAQA offers certifications as a “Certified Indoor Environmentalist” (C.I.E.) and as a “Certified Mold Remediator” (CMR). Further information about the purpose of the IAQA, including minimum qualifications required for both certifications, is available on the IAQA website at www.iaqa.org or contact the Indoor Air Quality Association, Inc., 10400 Connecticut Avenue, Suite 510, Kensington, MD 20895. Phone: (301) 962-3805, FAX: (301) 962-3806. E-mail: iaqa@aol.com

The following list of individuals in Texas holding CIE certification as of April 2001 was provided to TDH by the IAQA. (The CMR certification is new as of mid-2001, and individuals holding that certification were not included in this listing provided by IAQA):

III. The American Indoor Air Quality Council (AIAQC) - This professional association is comprised of many individuals from varied backgrounds and training who are working in the field of indoor air quality. The AIAQC offers a certification as a “Certified Indoor Air Quality Technician” (CIAQT), “Certified Indoor Air Quality Professional” (CIAQP) and Certified Microbial Remediation Supervisor (CMRS). Further information is available on the AIAQC website at www.iaqcouncil.org or contact the American Indoor Air Quality Council, P.O. Box 11599, Glendale, Arizona 85318-1599. Phone: (800) 942-0832, (623) 582-0832 (Phoenix area), FAX: (623) 581-6270. E-mail: iaqa@aol.com. More information regarding the certification is available from their website or the Association of Energy Engineers website at www.aeecenter.org/certification.

In response to TDH’s request to the AIAQC for a list of certified individuals, the AIAQC invited its members to respond directly to TDH if they desired to be included on this list. As of April 2001, the following individuals responded to TDH:
